This is an increase of 75 on the 2014 Week, and builds on steady growth over recent years.

Number of Inter Faith Week events by year

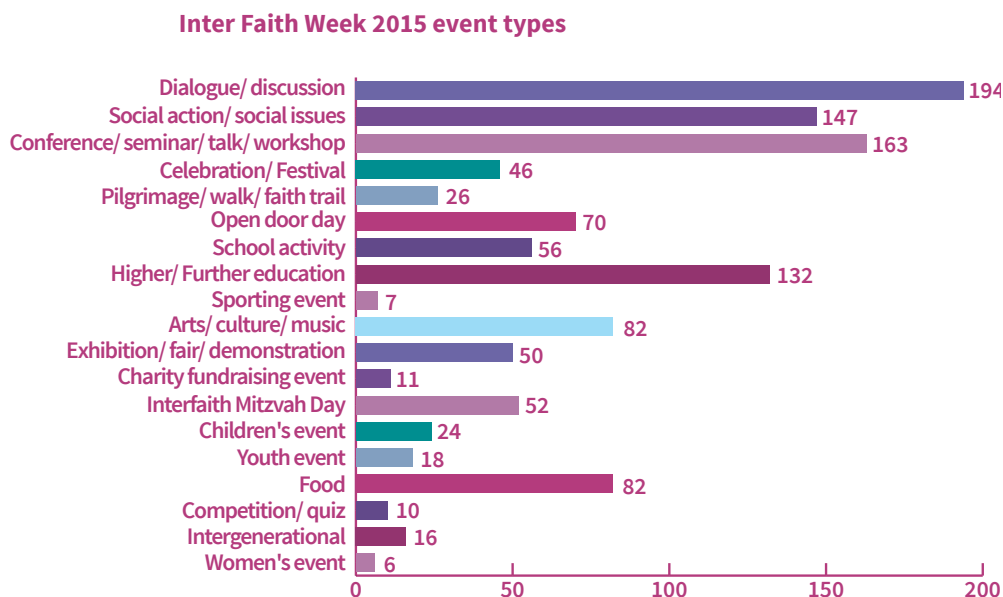

Types of organisation marking Inter Faith Week 2015

559 bodies reported to have taken part in the Week.

As shown in the chart to the left, the organisations varied widely in type. This figure only includes named organisations we are certain took part in the organisation of an event/ activity - we know that lots more take part but are not necessarily credited in public materials.

The types of event held also varied widely. As noted above, a full list of the events which are known to have taken place can be found here. (Note that many events fall into multiple categories, so the numbers on the chart will not add up to the total number of events).

What people said about Inter Faith Week 2015

We asked event organisers a number of questions about Inter Faith Week 2015, including what the best thing about the 2015 Week was. Here's some of what they said:

“The ethos of shared vision of peace, harmony, and working with inter-generational groups.” (A local inter faith group)

Did your Inter Faith Week activity help you to engage new people?

“Being able to provide a learning week which helped to fight further prejudice which has been created after the Paris attacks.” (A Catholic school)

“Good engagement with people we might not otherwise meet.” (A local inter faith group)

“It is a chance for people to find common ground with people of other faiths who they might not agree with by getting to know them better.” (An arts organisation)

“For me it was hearing other people’s stories especially as our event was focused on LGBT people’s experience of their faith and other people’s reaction to them etc.” (An equalities organisation)

“It is a great way to promote collaboration and involvement of people who would not normally do anything interfaith.” (A local faith community)
