Having a "faithfriend" is the best way to become better informed, to overcome the prejudices we all have, and share something of ourselves with another we would otherwise not connect with. It is such a powerful and mutually rewarding experience." Young people were encouraged to take a selfie with a friend from another faith, and share it on social media using the hashtag #faithfriends, and to nominate someone else to take part, too.

Open The Tent is a form of storytelling based on the "Labyrinth" concept currently used by the Cathedral's Discovery Centre. It has been adapted and theatrical techniques added to provide a unique experience for the children to hear the story of the first Christmas. The children move in small groups inside a Bedouin style "tent" visiting 5 storytellers to hear the story of the Nativity. Each storyteller a member of an Open the Book team is a character from the Nativity and is dressed accordingly i.e. Mary Innkeeper's wife Shepherd King Joseph.. Each character's performance area is set with props to establish the setting. Subtle theatre lighting is used to create a special atmosphere and to provide the star for the children to follow. The children are encouraged to use their sense of taste sight smell hearing and feeling and to reflect on the story with each character. Open The Tent can be performed in a school church or hall of at least 15m by 10m in size. It is suitable and free for primary school age children.

Short description of event:

To mark Inter Faith Week, four schools from Sutton gathered for a morning of intellectual and spiritual challenge at Sutton Grammar School. 14 Year 10 students from Greenshaw immediately got stuck into composing questions in groups with representatives from schools around Sutton on Ethical, Philosophical and Religious matters. They were then able to put their questions to a panel of four local representatives of local faith groups including the Vicar of St Helier and lay representatives from Muslim, Hindu and Jewish communities in a Question Time style panel debate. With topics ranging from the right to die and the right to kill to the nature of religious experience, the panellists were put on the spot and rose to the challenge admirably, being informative and honest about their beliefs and feelings in a way that the students felt gave a better understanding of religious faith than they had before.

This debate seeks to explore the issues and inform the Government inquiry by providing a platform for evidence gathering and discussion.

Short description of event:

Glamourized on screen as the heroic Lawrence of Arabia, Thomas Edward Lawrence was in reality a tormented soul who wrestled with British treachery in their dealings with the Arab Revolt. By his participation in the 1919 Paris Peace Conference, Lawrence tried to make amends for the now infamous Sykes-Picot agreement which undermined the public undertakings to support Arab Independence in exchange for Arab support in the First World War. Tragically even his later attempts to change his identity ended in failure and in his early death. The toxic legacy of betrayal, deceit and sedition is still played out in the Middle East. A seminar for interfaith leaders and public servants interested in the consequences of treachery. Speaker: The Reverend Andrew Tremlett, Canon Rector; Chair: General The Lord Dannatt.

In this part of year, we have a lot of celebrations; Eid, Hannukah, Diwali, Christmas, Samhain, Navaratri, and many others. In November, we also have Inter Faith Week, so we like to give students and staff the opportunity to come together, meet each other and celebrate together.

We call our event the Festival of Light, because a lot of the celebrations incorporate light in their celebrations. All of the uni's faith societies are invited and bring along some food to share. The event is run with respect for our differences, and as an opportunity to meet and learn from each other without discrimination.

Staines and Egham Quaker Meeting

Short description of event:

Staines and Egham Quaker Meeting invited people of all denominations and faiths to meet in friendship and enjoy informal discussions over refreshments at the Friends Meeting House in Egham. The occasion was intended to celebrate Inter Faith Week. It was attended by Christian and Muslim groups and all enjoyed lively dialogue and sharing faith experiences. There was a strong sense of the similarities which exist in the diverse belief systems and of how shared experiences and open minds can bring people together. Quakers shared some insights into their faith and history and there were many questions asked and answered. We have learned from this and other recent events that meeting and breaking bread together promotes dialogue and helps to forge friendships.

Organisation(s) holding the event:

University of Birmingham

Short description of event:

Our theme for 2014 is 'Is the New Testament Anti-Jewish?' , and will consist of a series of Lectures given by Professor Amy-Jill Levine, University Professor of New Testament and Jewish Studies and E. Rhodes and Leona B. Carpenter Professor of New Testament Studies, Vanderbilt, and Affiliated Professor, Woolf Institute: Centre for the Study of Jewish-Christian Relations, Cambridge.

Despite progress in both historical studies and interfaith relations, Jews and Christians continue to misunderstand each other, and to misunderstand the relationship of the New Testament to its Jewish context. In this year's series of Cadbury Lectures Professor Levine provides a historically informed and theologically sensitive reading of those New Testament passages that some claim to be anti-Jewish, rooted in a recognition that both Judaism and Christianity formed their identities in dialogue and debate with each other. The series explores and celebrates where Judaism and Christianity agree, as well as where they disagree.
